OVERVIEW

Kedarkantha Trek via Khedmi is an offbeat route to one of Uttarakhand's most popular Himalayan summits. Located in the Govind Wildlife Sanctuary region of Uttarkashi, this route takes trekkers through remote mountain settlements, dense Himalayan forests, alpine meadows and snow-covered trails before reaching the Kedarkantha summit at approximately 12,500 ft (3,810 m).

Unlike the popular approach from Sankri, the Khedmi route provides a more secluded trekking experience with fewer trekkers and a stronger connection with the remote villages of the region. The trail passes through beautiful pine, oak and conifer forests, with changing landscapes as you gain altitude.

The highlight of the trek is the summit climb, where clear weather can reveal spectacular Himalayan views, including Swargarohini, Bandarpoonch, Black Peak (Kalanag), Ranglana and other surrounding peaks.
